Tet Lunar New Year, Labor Obligations in FTAs, West Coast Ports, APCAC Business Summit

FEATURES

Feb 15 ~ 23 Tết - Chúc mừng năm mới ... An khang thịnh vượng ... Vạn sự như ý

Happy TET Lunar New Year. Traditionally, there are five main days of celebration: Tết New Year's Eve (Feb 18), and the First (Feb 19), Second (Feb 20), Third (Feb 21), and Fourth (Feb 22) of Tết. Officially, the holidays are Feb 17 - 23, but the Government decided at its regular November meeting to make the government offices' holidays period nine days. Government officials will work on Sat, Feb 14 in order to have nine days of holidays from Sun, Feb 15, to Mon, Feb 23.

Labor Obligations in TPP and other Free Trade Agreements

USTR filed a Federal Register Notice announcing a dispute settlement proceeding under the CAFTA-DR FTA regarding Guatemala's failure to effectively enforce its labor laws, which illustrates the enhanced importance of labor obligations in TPP and other FTAs, based on the "May 10, 2007" bipartisan Congressional-Executive Agreement. The Agreement was a "breakthrough," with critical new labor obligations relating to fundamental labor rights being made subject to full dispute settlement. The "May 10" provisions were included in the FTA with Peru and, thereafter, Colombia, Panama and South Korea, and have been the starting point of the Obama Administration's labor negotiations in TPP.

West Coast port disputes drag on; business and political leaders urge resolution

With 50 container ships anchored off the West Coast, the eyes of the international trade community were focused on San Francisco to learn if U.S. Secretary of Labor Thomas E. Perez could break the impasse in contract negotiations between the ILWU and the PMA. The 29 affected ports handle nearly half of all U.S. maritime trade and more than 70 percent of imports from Asia. Port congestion issues could cost retailers $7 billion this year. A 10-day shutdown could cost $2.1 billion per day to the overall economy.

USTR Launches WTO Challenge to Extensive Chinese Export Subsidy Program

USTR Michael Froman announced that the U.S. has pursued dispute settlement consultations with China at the WTO concerning China's export subsidy program. Under this program, China seems to provide prohibited export subsidies to manufacturers and producers across seven economic sectors and dozens of sub-sectors located in more than one hundred and fifty industrial clusters throughout China known as "Demonstration Bases." China has given almost $1 billion over a three-year period to "Common Service Platform suppliers" that agree to provide discounted or free services to Chinese companies, including exporters located in the Demonstration Bases, according to publicly available documents.

Mar 11-13, 2015 APCAC Business Summit, Singapore

The Asia-Pacific Council of American Chambers of Commerce (APCAC) and the American Chamber of Commerce in Singapore are pleased to host the 2015 APCAC Business Summit. The theme, "The United States and Asia - New Opportunities in the Pacific Century," builds on previous summits' themes about Asia's growth and global influence. ## News and Issues Updates

White House Summit on Cybersecurity and Consumer Protection, Feb 13, 2015

As a nation, the United States has become highly digitally dependent. Our economy, national security, educational systems, and social lives have all become deeply reliant on cyberspace. Our use of digital networks provides a platform for innovation and prosperity and a means to improve general welfare around the country and around the globe, driving unparalleled growth. But this dependency also creates risks that threaten national security, private enterprises and individual rights. It is a threat not just in the United States, but one that everyone, everywhere who is connected to cyberspace faces.

By focusing on risk management instead of compliance, the Cybersecurity Framework has the potential to transform cybersecurity on a global scale.

We tried the NIST Cybersecurity Framework and it works: Intel

Intel Corp. put the voluntary cybersecurity framework into action and has found it to be a useful tool, said company officials. The Framework for Improving Critical Infrastructure Cybersecurity, offered by the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) in February 2014, has provided Intel with a better understanding of its cyberisks and data security priorities, among other benefits, said Malcolm Harkins, the company's chief security and privacy officer, and Kent Landfield, its standards and technology policy director. The guidelines are intended to help enhance the cyberdefenses of tech companies, utilities, banks and other businesses that work with critical infrastructure.

Vietnam taking prudent steps toward ASEAN Economic Community 2015

"Vietnam has always focused on protecting items related to agriculture," MoIT Minister Vu Huy Hoang said. "As a result, if we take prudent steps, we should not be afraid of the AEC." Wholesale and retail markets are particularly worrisome. "This is one step to take while following the roadmap, as we open the market gradually and cautiously. Besides, for each commodity, we have a different degree of openness," he said. Currently foreign wholesalers and retailers are operating in Vietnam but to a very limited extent, while the amount of goods and categories of goods subject to inspection and control is very large. "In addition, the opening of such facilities is considered very carefully by everyone from central to local authorities."

Challenges for Vietnam's leadership in 2015

Experts on Vietnam characterized the Tenth Plenum of the 11th Party Congress held Jan 5-12 as a landmark event, suggesting that it has formed a new team of Vietnamese leaders for the next five years. Indeed, personnel issues were the focus. While experts focused mainly on the results of the vote of confidence among the Party Politburo leaders, the underlying significance has not received adequate attention. The evaluation of individual officials reflected the stances of political elites about the performance of the Party leadership and signaled the future direction. ...

Congressional leaders discuss "a path forward" on TPA, TPP

USTR Michael Froman appeared before the Senate Finance Committee and House of Representatives Ways & Means Committee to discuss the administration's trade policy.
