

TPP to increase VN exports by 30%, Macroeconomic Implications, Sander Levin Opposes

FEATURES

TPP could boost VN exports by 30%, FDI by 14%, GDP by 8%

New assessments based on the published TPP text estimate that Vietnam will be the greatest beneficiary of the TPP with exports up 30%; FDI up 14%; and GDP up 8% by 2030 over the "baseline scenario" without TPP.

World Bank: Macroeconomic Implications of TPP

The benefits of the TPP mostly derive from reductions in non-tariff-based measures (e.g., streamlining of administrative procedures) and regulatory measures that benefit services. The benefits are likely to materialize slowly but should accelerate toward the end of the projection period. The slow start results from the gradual implementation of the agreement and the lag required for benefits

Sander Levin, Top House Democrat on trade, opposes TPP

The leading House Democrat on trade policy said he opposes the TPP, underscoring the hostile political environment. He said he doesn't support the TPP in its current form because it contains insufficient provisions to protect labor, lacks binding rules to prevent currency manipulation, and could ease the movement of the auto industry from his home state of Michigan to Mexico.

U.S. - ASEAN Summit, Feb 15-16, 2016

A population of over 626 million, an economy of $2.5 trillion, ASEAN is the 3rd-largest economy in Asia. U.S. companies invest more in ASEAN, $190 billion, than any other market in Asia.

This unprecedented gathering - the first hosted by the United States with the ASEAN leaders - builds on the deeper partnership that the United States has forged with ASEAN since 2009 and will further advance the Administration's rebalance to Asia and the Pacific.

Car sales soar, along with congestion and environmental concerns

Up 55% in 2015 over 2014, raising questions about managing issues like traffic congestion, infrastructure requirements and carbon dioxide emissions.

EU-VN Free Trade Agreement now available online

It allows all interested stakeholders to become fully conversant with its content well in advance of the ratification processes both in the EU and in Vietnam. The text will be subject to a legal review to verify its consistency and ensure that all provisions are formulated in a legally-sound manner. It will then be translated into all EU languages as well as into Vietnamese before being signed and ratified by both parties.

Vietnam on board with EU car rules in EU-VN FTA

The agreement should make it easier for European firms to sell vehicles in Vietnam but more difficult for American. The EU-VN FTA includes a commitment that cars sold in Vietnam should follow "international vehicle regulations." The commitment also covers parts for these vehicles and also car parts also used in minibuses (of up to 5 tons) and in commercial trucks.

Eleven planned dams on Mekong threaten more than half of fish catch

"When you have 11 dams there ain't a lot left when you get to the bottom," said Ian Cox, director of the International Fisheries Institute at Britain's Hull University. Overfishing is already taking a toll. Laos plans to borrow heavily to fund nine hydropower dams across the Mekong, and Cambodia plans to construct two. More than half of fish catches could be lost. Nutrient levels within the water are expected to fall by 50% due to trapped sediment.

Finance Committee Chairman explains process of TPP ratification

The signing ceremony ... is just beginning. We'll debate the merits of each and every provision of this agreement and consider how it will impact workers and job creators in our country and how it will affect the health of our economy. I will focus on the process by which Congress will consider and debate this agreement ... it is important that people, including members of Congress, the administration, stakeholders, and the media, have a full understanding of how this is going to work. As I've said many times, the TPP is an extremely important agreement, and we need to get it done. But, given that importance, we need to focus more on getting it right than on getting it done fast.

Is it too late for Congress to vote on TPP in 2016?

In the announced schedule for the House of Representatives in 2016, there are only 59 "legislative days" after May 18, when the ITC Report on the impact of the TPP on at the U.S. economy is due to be released. This does not preclude Congress acting faster, but it does shift power from the White House to Congressional leadership. If this Congress runs out the clock and the TPP has not passed both House and Senate, the process would die and have to restart in 2017.

TPP signing on Feb 4; "... beginning of the next phase for TPP"

"After five years of negotiation, signing the TPP is an important milestone in our efforts to set high-standard rules of the road in the Asia Pacific region, and to deliver an agreement that will benefit American workers, farmers and businesses," said USTR Michael Froman. The TPP Ministers' Statement said ""The signing ... is the beginning of the next phase for TPP. ... our respective domestic processes.."
