FEATURES

Revitalising Vietnam's power plants, keeping an eye on emissions

A wide range of new technologies and solutions from GE can contribute to the Vietnamese energy agenda through the reduction of emissions and the enhanced efficiency of power generation assets, especially in coal-fired power plants. This has become especially important after Vietnam pledged for COP21 in Paris two years ago. Hai Tram reports.

Boom foreseen in green construction in VN

There will be a boom in green buildings in Vietnam if the community's awareness of environmental protection improves, an expert told a symposium in HCM City on Thursday. Green buildings are defined as those with high efficiency in the use of energy and materials and not having much adverse effect on human health and the environment.

SME transparency a must for loans: experts

Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) must improve their transparency to enable them to access banking credits, experts said at a conference on Thursday. The conference was jointly held by the Viet Nam Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the State Bank of Viet Nam to discuss credit boosts for SMEs facing long-standing difficulties in accessing loans.
